Students of Interest to the Company: PharmD Students

Kerr drug is a regional chain located in the Carolinas. We have approximately 100 stores in North Carolina and 15 stores in the Charleston, South Carolina area. The company was formed in 1997 as a rebirth of the old Kerr Drug chain, which operated from 1951-1995. We were named the National Chain Drug Company for the year 2000 in only our fourth year of operation! We continue to strive to be the very best regional drug store chain and offer our customers the very best in pharmaceutical health care. One of our newest programs is our Kerr Health Care Centers. These centers are located in several of our stores. Pharmacists offer routine health screenings, refer customers to physicians, and follow the progress of patients' treatments. Pharmacists do triage and much more. They handle immunizations, wellness programs, and disease management counseling. The focus is on prevention, detection, and monitoring and management of chronic disease via drug therapy. We feel one of the factors that set us apart from other companies is the fact that the majority of our senior management team, including CEO Tony Civello, are licensed pharmacists. There is a strong understanding and support structure for our pharmacists from the top level of management. Strong technical support in the stores is another area in which we take great pride. Pharmacist job satisfaction is a top priority in our company. We hope you will consider joining our team at Kerr Drug and enjoy a career in retail pharmacy with a continued emphasis on enhanced pharmaceutical care.

Kroger

Interview & Exhibit

Bernard H. Kroger founded the Kroger Co. with his first store in 1883 at age 23. Barnard H. Kroger's success stemmed from his belief in himself, his dedication to work ethic, and his insistence on quality products. Early on, Kroger learned an important management strategy: surround yourself with capable and motivated people. He had a knack for hiring talented people, and he recognized their ability with promotions. Combining the best manpower with a solid retailing approach, Kroger now had the tools for continued growth. In September 1960, Kroger opened our first in-store pharmacy in Houston, Texas. Since that time, Kroger has grown to become the nation's largest Food/Drug Combo Retailer. The Kroger Co. now operates over 2500 grocery retail stores in 32 states under nearly two dozen banners. Over 1800 of these stores have pharmacies. Other formats include supermarkets, price impact warehouse stores, and multi-department stores that are similar to supercenters. Kroger is currently in 48 major markets and holds the #1 or #2 position in 41 of these markets. Kroger Pharmacy has continued to push the boundaries of pharmaceutical care and clinical services with programs such as pharmacist administered immunizations, glucose screenings, diabetic food tours, cholesterol screenings, medication therapy management and many more. Kroger Pharmacy believes these services and superior, personal customer service provide what our customers want and deserve. We believe the pharmacist is not only an essential clinical professional, but also an integral part of the communities we serve. Kroger pharmacy is committed to the development of new technologies and avenues, which will further develop the role of the pharmacist in the progressive health care system. We believe people make the difference and we are looking for those candidates who choose to develop and advance our profession and our company.

Mutual Wholesale Drug Company

UNC has several Clinical Research/Drug Development 2 year fellowships programs with GSK, United Therapeutics, PPD or King Pharm. These companies are within 20 miles from UNC. The first year is spent at UNC working under one or two faculty members conducting clinical research studies (Phase i, ii, or iii) and/or pharmacokinetic/drug metabolism/genomic studies in humans in areas such as oncology, cardiovascular disease, infectious diseases, hepatology, transplantation to name a few. During this first year you attend training sessions and classes on clinical research design, stats, IRB regulations, good clinical practice, drug development process. You will get experience presenting at journal club, seminars and get writing experience with protocols, abstracts, papers... The second year you will spend at one of these companies. Depending on the company, you may be assigned to a specific research/clinical group or be involved with many aspects of industry research and conduct of clinical studies. You won't typically be involved in drug information, sales, marketing since the focus is on clinical research. We also have Pharmacokinetics/Pharmacodynamic Fellowship with GSK and Quintiles.
